

Revolution in Women's Clothes With New Cosmetic surgery!

Ever notice women wearing revealing swim suits on the beach or around the pool – it's almost like a "show-it-all" contest. Then, the minute they leave the area, they cover up like mummies – as if such exposure was somehow evil or nasty.

Fashions routinely show all kinds of cleavage and bulges with only one primary limitation – don't show those nipples!

Thanks to the miracles of modern cosmetic surgery, the latest trend is a simple nipple-ectomy. The result is perfectly smooth skin all over. With nothing more to hide, you can now feel comfortable showing it all!

Clothes designers have a whole new world of latitude. Censors and Puritains lose another round. Now, you can really maximize your figure.

New Business Opportunity

This revolutionary procedure also opens an entirely new industry for supplying temporary, stick-on nipples. Sizes and colors can range widely. The concept of color coordination takes on whole new dimension. Size and style can be totally adjusted for the occasion. This development is sure to titillate even the staunchest fanatics.
